

Athletic Stardom

Athletic talent can be general, but it can also be specific to a sport. How often has it happened that someone never became a sports star because no sport ever evolved which matched their actual or potential skill set?