

CAPITALISM

Individuals, pursuing economic self-interest, collectively create an abundance of goods and services along with a generally higher economic standard of living for everyone.

Private vice creates public virtue.