

Rational Atheism?

Many disbelieve in the existence of a God because they value reason over faith. How then can they rationally argue that either of the following statements is false?

- MATTER AND ENERGY HAVE ALWAYS EXISTED.
- MATTER AND ENERGY CREATED THEMSELVES.

If the truth of these two statements has no rational basis, would not the more rational conclusion be that atheism requires faith?