

AI "KILL" SWITCH

Learning is essentially trial and error, but is the development of an artificial super intelligence a project we must get right the first time? In the context of existential threat, is good enough going to be good enough?

Alt

F4

Enter