

Can an artificial intelligence eventually become self-aware and fully understand the meaning of "I" and "me" and "mine"?

Does the formal limitation of logic and mathematics, proven by Kurt Gödel in 1931, imply that such an intelligence can never achieve this state or does it imply the reverse?

