

If reality only exists
only during measurement,
what is logically
true about reality
before measurement?