

LETHAL CREATION

For each creative act or event, something must necessarily be destroyed, even if it's the status of something replaced by a new creation. This truth reminds one of the “death and rebirth” idea.