

Crunch time athletes can have laser-like focus on the specific goal of the moment, not on the context on the moment. That's why they can show extraordinary performance under pressure. This ability is generalizable to life.