NEWS ITEM: Narcoleptic newlywed Yale Stokeley was found dead by asphyxiation yesterday. His bride reported finding him with his head in the oven of their kitchen stove as fumes permeated the house. Officers and paramedics on the scene speculate that Mr. Stokeley believed the oven had malfunctioned and fell asleep as he investigated, never to awaken. He was thirty-two years of age and, according to his wife, had never been happier.

Could this actually happen?
