Intellectual vs. Old-Fashioned

Many educated 'intellectuals' believe that life and the universe are too incomprehensible for ordinary, old-fashion people to understand, people who believe in things like right and wrong, up and down, and stuff.