

In the natural world, chaos is essentially sameness, the absence of differences. In our social world, why wouldn't enforced physical and behavioral "equity" eventually create chaos?