

”The weight of a soul can best be measured by the degree to which it overcomes fear in order to do the right thing; it can only be fully understood by the cowardly.”

— a wise but cowardly man