

You know you have an exceptional marriage when you feel you have to fight occasionally just to seem normal. How about a “spirited” debate on who is luckier to have married the other. You might have to act out a little bit though.