

Kate Bowman, commander of a disabled ship orbiting Mars, speaks to another crew member who appears to be standing on its surface.

Gallagher: It's nice to know you're still up there.

Bowman: Well, I don't mind dying. I just hate being alone.

To the extent the commander represents humanity, we apparently fear being alone more than death.

Red Planet (2000)

