

God's Plan B

Plan A: Ignorance

God creates Adam and Eve to live blissfully in the garden forever, with one special tree just to make things interesting.

Plan B: Seduction

If one or both are seduced by this tree, they will know both good and evil. Since they were seduced, free will must have existed at the moment of their creation. And since they were to live in body and spirit forever, how likely was an eventual seduction?

Was plan B really plan A all along?
