

AI and Paradox

A famous paradox is attributed to Epimenides, a philosopher from ancient Crete: "All Cretins are liars." If this statement is true, it is false. Eventually, will an artificial intelligence be able to resolve this paradox, or would it create an intelligence that could?