

Psychological Labor

It's any act of the mind which reduces life's uncertainty; its context is emotion; its heart is the act of making a decision.

This kind of work burns calories and is often physically exhausting.