

Polls and Elections

Why do Presidential political polls tend to be relatively close, within 10 percentage points.

Why are no lopsided polls ever published?

Could it be that a relatively close poll is a better pretext for election mischief, to justify any resulting surprise?