

Human Language

"There are more things in heaven and earth...than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

– William Shakespeare, Hamlet

There are more things in reality than can ever be accounted for or expressed by human language; human language always, to some degree, distorts reality.
Mathematical language too.