

A close-up photograph of a multi-layered chocolate cake. The cake is covered in a thick, glossy chocolate glaze that drips down the sides. It is decorated with fresh raspberries, chocolate shavings, and cinnamon sticks. The cake is presented on a white plate with a decorative chocolate drizzle around the base. The background is dark and out of focus.

You will no longer be tempted if you just eat it. This method works for other temptations too, but do not use it with moral decisions.