

Dead Languages

Is a language next to death when its speakers generally use it to manipulate rather than inform? Is modern English political language "dead" in this sense?