

Metastatic Power

Like a cancerous tumor that reproduces without limit and winds up mindlessly destroying its host, the nature of power is to expand or to seek expansion. This nature is power's self-destructive flaw.