

THE TRUTH

A reality which subsumes time, the physical and non-physical, nothing and all nothingnesses, and which is true; it must exist. If this reality were to instantaneously and fully occupy our individual and collective psyches, what would be the corresponding physical, intellectual, psychological, and behavioral result?

Would we become mad?