

Self-deprecation and sarcasm show how humor affects anger. The former can neutralize it while the latter can intensify it.