

Good music is an artistically organized sequence of sounds and silences, and sometimes the most intense and compelling moments are the silences.