

Suffering Transforms Us

It's like a flame that causes intense pain but changes things at the molecular level. When you've been in the cauldron, you're never the same. What's important though is that the transformation makes us wiser people, better people.