

IGNORANCE

Plato, a famous Greek philosopher, lived and thought long ago. He imagines people living the entire lives in a cave, their reality consisting of shadows on the rock wall. All their beliefs about reality are therefore false, their lives based on illusion.

How often do we mistake reality and true wisdom for the delusional “wisdom” of our own caves?

