

WEAKNESSES OF LOGIC

Deductive Redundancy

Because a conclusion is already implied by its associated premises, deduction is circular reasoning and can yield no new information.

Inductive Uncertainty

Because an infinite number of tests are required to produce certainty for a general conclusion, the results will always contain some certainty.