

Accidental Universe

Does the universe exist by accident? If so, do natural laws and constants exist by accident as well? What about evolutionary processes? And, over unimaginable spans of time, did a particular arrangement of particles and forces cause the emergence of moral laws?