

In their last years,
do most ambitious people
who've accumulated
money and power embrace
the life they've lived,
or do they eventually
long for having had
an ordinary life,
well lived?