

Walking about four miles per hour for about three miles makes an old man tired, but the pace cannot be altered.

To do so would delegitimize and makes him feel less alive.