

Confidence, only an emotion, doesn't create a probability of success. It's only a by-product.

The real generator of success is a focused strength of will,
the child of commitment to certain values.