

Moral Entanglement

Similar to primal electrons which are entangled, good and evil imply each other, are part of each other, are meaningful only in terms of each other, blur into one another. Is there an ultimate unity between the physical and moral worlds?