

You can't substantively debate God's existence.

The issues will always be apples vs. oranges.

An atheist will argue using science while the theist denies that God's existence is even a scientific question. It's always belief vs. faith.

For those who enjoy such debates, it's a matter of money and emotional satisfaction, nothing more.