

Ultimately Funny!

Without psychosis or the assistance of asphyxiation, gas, drugs, or alcohol, has any person laughed knowing they were in their moment of death? Could it be this uproariously funny? What kind of life history could have brought a person to such a moment?

To be laughing during one's last exhalation really takes the human comedy to a whole new level.