

Some are unhappy because of health insecurity or insecurity with finances. Others are unhappy because they feel unloved or unneeded by anyone. Still others are unhappy because they don't believe they make a difference to others or to society. Here's a solution.

Commit the rest of your life to making at least one other person, in all these important ways, truly happy.