

Truth Telling?

PROFESSIONAL GRADE

Whether with black lies or white lies, everybody lies, everybody. Whether for bad or good purposes, everybody withholds information or disseminates disinformation. Some types of people, however, are at entirely another level.

A good example is the politician. The best lies are often ones containing some truth, and they seem to know just how much truth to mix in. It's an art form. The really good ones though achieve the ultimate manipulation: when the time is right, when the audience is right, when the context is right, when the delivery is worthy of an Oscar® nomination, they do the unexpected. They simply tell the unqualified, unvarnished truth!