

Procrastination would probably rise on the popularity chart of favorite human activities if humans were no longer mortal.