

Political Leaders

A leader should be judged by the maturity and character of those who follow. By this standard, authoritarians do not qualify as leaders. They often get "elected" though by voters of low maturity and weak character.

In other words, it's not cool to get elected by a bunch of uninformed, empty-headed morons.