

Free Will

If it does not exist, all events must be caused, there can be no morality, and both right and wrong are illusions. If it does exist, there must be uncaused events, and God must be the first of these, both uncaused and Self-caused, whose existence must transcend time.